

Complete Distribution Box Series

Article Overview

Complete distribution box series are modular electrical enclosures designed for safe and efficient power distribution in residential, commercial, and industrial applications.

Overview

Complete distribution boxes are essential for managing electrical power safely and efficiently. They house circuit breakers, fuses, and other electrical components, providing protection against overloads, short circuits, and environmental factors. These boxes are available in various series, materials, and configurations to suit different applications and installation requirements .

Key Series and Features

- XM & JXF Series: Made of high-quality 304 stainless steel, these boxes are corrosion-resistant and suitable for humid or outdoor environments. They feature a three-phase four-wire design with complete internal wiring, compact structure, and good sealing performance. Customization is available for non-standard designs .
- PDX and TSPE Series: These modular boxes are built for flexible indoor and outdoor use, with durable plastic and metal construction. They support wall-mounted and flush-mounted installations and are ideal for residential, commercial, and industrial settings. Some models include molded case circuit breakers (MCCBs) for large power consumers
