

Czech Republic sells explosion-proof distribution boxes with functional features

Article Overview

Czech manufacturers like GENERI and RSBP offer explosion-proof distribution boxes with high protection ratings, functional versatility, and international certifications for hazardous environments.

Key Manufacturers and Products

GENERI, s.r.o. is a Czech manufacturer established in 1993, specializing in electrical equipment for explosive and industrial areas. Their product range includes explosion-proof terminal boxes, aluminium distributors, surge protection devices, sockets, transformer boxes, and lighting sets. These products are designed for hazardous zones and come with certifications such as ATEX, OBÚ, EAC, and ISO 9001, ensuring compliance with European and international safety standards. GENERI also provides installation, maintenance, and repair services for heating and electrical systems in industrial settings. RSBP spol. s r.o., distributed by ATEX.CENTER, offers turnkey explosion protection systems, including distribution boxes and control stations. Their solutions are tailored to specific production environments, ensuring safe operation in areas with combustible dust or gases. The systems comply with ATEX and TR TS 012 / 2011 safety regulations and include full support from design to commissioning.
