

Fiber optic pre-terminated patch cord

Article Overview

A fiber optic pre-terminated patch cord is a factory-assembled, polished, and tested fiber cable with connectors installed, ready for immediate deployment.

Overview

Pre-terminated patch cords are factory-polished and tested fiber assemblies that come with completed connectors, eliminating the need for field termination or polishing. This ensures consistent optical performance, reduces installation time, and minimizes errors caused by environmental factors or operator handling (HOLIGHT) . They are widely used in FTTH networks, ODN distribution, mobile networks, microduct routing, and high-density data centers .

Structure and Types

A typical pre-terminated patch cord consists of:

- Fiber core: Single-mode (OS1/OS2, G.657A1/A2) or multimode (OM1-OM5) depending on application .
- Connectors: Common types include LC, SC, FC, ST, MPO/MTP, or hybrid combinations .
- Strength members: Kevlar yarn or aramid fibers for mechanical protection .
- Jacket: Materials such as PVC, LSZH, OFNR, OFNP, or armored designs for indoor, outdoor, or FTTH applications .
- Optional features: Uniboot designs for cleaner cable management, color-coded jackets for easy identification, and multi-core or multi-fiber configurations for high-d...
