

How much does it cost to sell fiber optic gratings

Article Overview

The cost to sell fiber Bragg gratings (FBGs) varies widely, typically ranging from a few hundred to several thousand dollars per unit depending on type, wavelength, and customization.

Pricing Overview

Fiber Bragg gratings are specialized optical components used in telecommunications, lasers, sensors, and dispersion compensation. Their price is influenced by several factors:

- Type of Grating: Standard uniform FBGs are generally less expensive, while chirped, apodized, phase-shifted, or high-power gratings command higher prices due to complex fabrication and performance requirements .
- Wavelength and Bandwidth: FBGs designed for specific wavelengths (e.g., 1.5 μm for telecom or 2.0 μm for high-power lasers) can affect cost, with high-precision or high-power gratings being more expensive .
- Customization: Custom lengths, reflectivity, packaging, or environmental tolerance (e.g., high temperature or athermal packaging) increase the price .
- Quantity: Bulk orders may reduce per-unit cost, while single or small orders are more expensive due to setup and production overhead .
