

Latest Price Trends for Cable Trays in Australia

Article Overview

Australian cable trays typically range from AUD 50 to AUD 300 per section depending on type, material, and load capacity.

Overview of Cable Tray Pricing

Cable trays in Australia vary in price based on material, size, type, and duty rating. Common materials include galvanised steel, stainless steel, aluminium, and pre-galvanised sheet steel, with stainless steel and aluminium generally costing more due to corrosion resistance and durability .

- Perforated cable trays (light-duty, good airflow) are usually the most economical, suitable for light commercial or residential projects .
- T3 cable trays (medium-duty, industrial standard) are moderately priced and support higher cable loads, often used in fire-rated systems .
- T5 cable trays (heavy-duty, deep tray for maximum cable capacity) are the most expensive, designed for industrial or high-load applications .
- Wire mesh or basket trays provide ventilation and easy cable access, with prices varying by size and material .
