

Optical Cable Puller for Telecommunications Engineering

Overview

An optical fiber cable pulling machine is an essential tool used in telecommunications, data networking, and power infrastructure to safely and efficiently install fiber optic cables through conduits, ducts, and overhead lines. The GMP SideWinder Trailer-Mounted Fiber Optic Puller SideWinder Fiber Optic Puller has been designed to exceed the requirements of installing underground telecommunication cables, employing a 32 in. diameter single capstan to provide a controlled force to the pulling rope or tape. The Condux line of cable pullers also includes a variety of performance enhancing accessories like capstans, mounts and more. These machines vary by power source and application, each offering. Thorne & Derrick International distribute the most extensive range of Cable Pulling & Cable Laying Equipment to enable the installation of low, medium and high voltage power cables into underground trench or duct – products also supplied for fibre optic blowing, subsea trenching, offshore umbilical. Timberland designs and builds a complete range of small and large pullers for fiber-optic applications, including truck- and pole-mounted models.
