

Price of power equipment distribution boxes

Article Overview

The cost of complete power distribution boxes ranges widely from around $50 for basic residential units to several thousand dollars for industrial-grade or specialized systems.

Residential and Small-Scale Units

Standard residential distribution boxes, often single-phase or small three-phase units, typically cost $50 to $500 depending on the material (plastic, steel, or stainless steel), number of circuits, and included components such as circuit breakers and surge protectors. Basic plastic enclosures are at the lower end, while powder-coated or stainless steel units with integrated breakers and monitoring features are more expensive.

Commercial and Industrial Units

Commercial and industrial distribution boxes are designed for higher durability, larger amperage, and advanced control systems. Prices for these units can range from $1,000 to $10,000 or more, depending on specifications such as voltage rating, amperage capacity (16A to 630A), number of outlets, and additional features like remote monitoring, Wi-Fi/Ethernet connectivity, or energy management systems. Outdoor-rated, weather-resistant enclosures or units for harsh environments carry premium pricing
