

Price of protective netting for electrical distribution boxes

Article Overview

Protective netting or enclosures for electrical distribution boxes typically range from $20 to $150 per unit, depending on size, material, and IP rating.

Pricing Overview

The cost of protective solutions for distribution boxes varies based on material, size, and environmental protection level. Standard plastic or ABS enclosures with IP65/IP66 ratings, which provide dustproof and waterproof protection, generally start around $20-$50 for small residential units and can reach $100-$150 for larger commercial or industrial boxes with transparent covers and advanced features such as modular design or surge protection .

Material and Protection Considerations

- ABS or PC/ABS plastic: Lightweight, impact-resistant, and suitable for indoor and outdoor use .
- IP65/IP66 rating: Ensures protection against dust and water ingress, ideal for outdoor installations .
- Transparent or opaque covers: Transparent covers allow visual inspection without opening the box, while opaque covers provide additional UV protection .
- Optional netting or mesh: Some suppliers offer protective netting or perforated covers to prevent physical contact while maintaining ventilation....
