

Western European optical cable cutting manufacturer

Article Overview

Leading Western European manufacturers of optical cable cutting machinery include Rosendahl Nextrom and Schäfer Group, offering high-precision, semi-automatic and fully automatic fiber optic processing solutions.

Key Manufacturers

1. Rosendahl Nextrom Rosendahl Nextrom is a prominent European supplier of production technologies for optical fibers and fiber optic cables. Their machinery covers the entire production process, including fiber drawing, coating, ribbon making, proof testing, and cable production. They provide solutions for both indoor and outdoor fiber optic cables, emphasizing high production speed, reduced setup times, and precise stranding processes. Their equipment integrates real-time quality monitoring systems to detect deviations in fiber length and reduce scrap rates, ensuring consistent high-quality output . 2. Schäfer Group Schäfer Group specializes in fiber optic processing lines and automation systems. Their machines support semi-automatic and fully automatic production of fiber optic cables, including pigtails, control cables, and patch cables. Key features include precision cutting of optical fibers, tension-free cable feeding, and fully integrated quality monitoring through their SynchroLine automation system. Schäfer's solutions are designed for high efficiency and low light attenuation in finished cables . 3. Komax While Komax is primarily known for wire and cable processing, their semi-automated cut and strip machines also handle fiber optic cables. Their product range includes machines capable of cutting and stripping wires and multiconductor cables with diameters fro...
